F – Tag 314

Tuesday, February 16, 2016

1:00 pm – 2:15 pm

Theresa Lang, RN

(Theresa.Lang@specializedmed.com)

Specialized Medical Services, Milwaukee, WI
will present this webinar.

In the first nine months of 2015 – 122 facilities have been cited for F-Tag 314, at this rate more than 150 facilities (greater than 35%) of all facilities will receive this citation in 2015. In the first six months of 2015 – six facilities were cited at the IJ level. In this webinar we will discuss situations that have led to the citation of F-Tag 314 as well as facilities processes that would prevent these citations such as: risk assessment including tissue tolerance, care planning, physician notification, immediate interventions and documentation. You will be able to identify the key elements of F – Tag 314, differentiate pressure ulcers from other skin alterations and discuss the role of care planning in pressure ulcer prevention and treatment.

F – Tag 225

Tuesday, March 15, 2016

1:00 pm – 2:00 pm

Brian Purtell, Esq.

(brp@dewittross.com)

DeWitt Ross Stevens, S.C., Madison, WI
will present this webinar.

This session will address the multiple expectations and obligations related to abuse/neglect/injury of unknown origin prevention and reporting. Given the critical issues involving protecting residents from harm, the interpretations of the regulations underlying these F-Tags is quite strict. There are multiple areas of missteps that can lead to allegations of noncompliance with these deficiencies, including in instances where no actual harm occurred. As importantly, often a single situation can yield multiple F-Tags alleging noncompliance. Given the importance of both protecting residents from harm, and the public perception associated with deficiencies in these areas, compliance in this highly scrutinized area is critical. This session will discuss the frequent areas in which providers are being cited critical components of written policy and training; necessary reporting expectations; and documentation and monitoring tips. Finally, we will discuss proactive and reactive QAPI efforts that may aid in compliance expectations.
